Yokogawa Corporation of America's Environmental Management System Receives ISO 14001 Certification

Yokogawa Corporation of America is proud to announce its Environmental Management System was recently certified in accordance with the ISO 14001 International Environmental Management System standard. Yokogawa's Environmental Management System is applicable to the Design, Manufacture, Integration and Service of Industrial Instrumentation, Test & Measurement Equipment and Digital Process Control Systems. Yokogawa Corporation of America's Newnan, GA factory joins many other Yokogawa manufacturing facilities worldwide certified to the ISO 14001 standard.

"Our ISO 14001 certification is another step forward for Yokogawa's Global Environmental Protection Initiative." Said Dave Johnson, President and COO of Yokogawa Corporation of America. "Yokogawa employees worldwide are charged with being actively involved in initiatives that aim to protect our environment during their daily business activities. Our ISO 14001 certification is evidence of our active environmental passion."

Yokogawa Corporation of America maintains ISO 14001 registration through Lloyd's Register Quality Assurance.
